SERVICE OF WORSHIP

October 22, 2017 • 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m.

ABOUT TODAY'S SERVICE

Today we read the story of Naaman. Naaman is instructive to us today not because he was a leper, and not because he was a military hero, and not because he received a miracle, but because he realized that when it came to his faith, he would always be a hypocrite.

REPTON

Offertory

Come Sunday
Duke Ellington and Alice Parker; Roslinde Rivera, soloist

Come Sunday, Sunday, that's the day.
I believe that God put sun and moon up in the sky.
I don't mind the gray skies
'Cause they're just clouds passing by.
Lord, dear Lord above God Almighty, God of Love,
Please look down and see my people through.

I believe God is now, was then,
And always will be.
With God's blessing we can make it thro' eternity.
Lord, dear Lord above: God Almighty, God of Love,
Please look down and see my people through.

*Response

Great God of every blessing, of faithful, loving care, you are the fount of goodness, the daily bread we share.
How can we hope to thank you? Our praise is but a start.
Sincerely and completely I offer you my heart.

Go, my children, fed and nourished, closer to me.

The Places Hope Takes Us: A Visual Interpretation

As this sermon series reminds us, hope is a choice. It is a choice to live our lives trusting that God will keep God's promises. Which means hope consistently shows up even where it seems least likely. It also means that hope is always a bright burst of color even when the world feels filled with dread and despair. The chain of ribbons moving throughout the Sanctuary points to this. The colors are vibrant and demand our attention; so, too, does God's faithfulness. The ribbons also move from the back of the chancel clear up to the cross in a bold, decisive direction. That is the nature of hope — it takes us to the cross. At the same time, hope takes us from that cross back out into the world to be messengers of that good news. Let the ribbons lead you into worship, and then back out into our community to share signs of good news. Lastly, this piece was made by many hands, much time, and stubborn creativity. Hope has a habit of showing up where and when all these things are present.

THE CHURCH'S BOOK (Week of October 22, 2017)

The following daily Bible readings were written by Rev. Len Carrell and are offered for your own personal devotion. You are invited to read the text, think about the reflection and questions and allow these to lead you in a time of prayer. Pray for your own journey of faith, pray for Village Church, pray for the community around you, and pray for all of creation.

Monday, Oct. 23

Psalm 40

When I was a teenager, the Irish rock group U2 was the first to make the Bible cool to me. They wrote a song based on this Psalm and would close their concerts inviting their fans to sing along with them. Long after the band had left the stage and the lights were turned on encouraging us to leave, the crowd would continue singing, "How long to sing this song?" The new song that God has placed in our mouths and written upon our hearts is a song of deliverance and praise for the saving work God is doing in our lives this day. How could we ever keep from singing such a song?

Tuesday, Oct. 24

Psalm 34

Being in the saving graces of our creator and redeemer is more than just felt or imagined, it is savored. The goodness of God engages the entire host of human sensations. We listen for the voice of God, we smell the fragrance of God's divine spirit, we touch the offerings God places before us, we taste and see the radiance of God's goodness. In what ways do you sense God through sensation?

Wednesday, Oct. 25

Psalm 46

"Be still, and know that I am God." This is not a call for private meditation or relaxation; it is an appeal of the people of God to depend on God and not ourselves. At the beginning, the world is in tumult; the mountains tremble and shake, the waters roar and foam, the nations are in an uproar. But did you notice the "desolation" God causes? God makes wars cease and destroys the elements of violence. "Be still" is not a call to close our eyes and be quiet; it is to say, "Enough already!" or "Cast aside your weapons." Or, "Blessed are the peacemakers for they will be called children of God."

Thursday, Oct. 26

Psalm 121

John Bunyan, the English writer and Puritan preacher, wrote in his novel The Pilgrim's Progress, "Then did Christian begin to go back to the right road; and Evangelist, after he had kissed him, gave him one smile, and bid him God-speed." God-speed is a popular phrase used to bid someone a successful journey. This psalm is known as a farewell discourse of a sojourner, because the way of a faithful sojourner is to always be "on our way." But the one who keeps us on the path is the one who keeps our whole life.

Friday, Oct. 27

Psalm 19

C. S. Lewis calls this Psalm "the greatest poem in the Psalter and one of the greatest lyrics in the world." This Psalm has three movements: reflecting on the goodness of God's creation, reflecting on God's instruction, or torah, reflecting on us as God's servants. God, whose voice commands the cosmos, is the God whose voice addresses humankind with a personal word. This Psalm proclaims that love is the reality of God's relationship to all things, seen and unseen.

Saturday, Oct. 28

Psalm 100

This is an appropriate Psalm as we turn to Sunday, the Lord's day. The focus of our praise is God. In the same way, the focus of our life is giving thanks to God. This is a song of reverence because it asks, "What does it mean to belong to God?" The first question of the Westminster Shorter Catechism asks, "What is the chief end of humankind?" Answer: to glorify God and enjoy God forever.

SERMON SERIES

The Places Hope Takes You

Hope is a funny thing. It can be illusive, slipping through our fingers with the slightest disappointment. Hope can be surprisingly strong, showing up in the most challenging circumstances. From those who have gone before us in faith, we have seen that hope is not simply an attitude, it is a choice. Hope is not a wish for this or that, but hope is a power. When we lean into our hope, it can take us to places that we would not know otherwise.
